

Mrs. Akey, From Trinity Student to Teacher

_____ Mrs. Akey is excited to begin her first year as a Trinity teacher, and I'm sure the Trinity staff feels pleased to see her back in the building after graduating as a student here.

As a student, she enjoyed music classes, volleyball, and performing in the school's annual musical each year. She especially enjoyed science and math classes, and that has carried over into her job as a chemistry teacher. Mr. Anderson, Mrs. Stuckwisch, and Mr. Vorthmann inspired Akey to study math and political science in college.

Akey loved all her teachers stating she loved "just how encouraging they were", but her aunt left the most impact on Akey in her journey to becoming a teacher. Akey's most important goal for this year, "to show [the students] just how intricate God's creation is", sums up Trinity's mission perfectly. Akey's busy life has been the biggest challenge in her teaching career so far. On top of teaching, she still takes classes including an education course.

However, she's enjoyed her year so far and hopes to continue on that path. Before her time here, Akey worked as a counselor at Camp Lakeview and a research assistant for her school professor. Akey loves spending time with her one-year-old daughter and her husband.

She loves baking and cooking, especially recreating Buffalo Wild Wings meals that her family loves. Trinity welcomes Mrs. Akey to the staff and we are excited to have her here.
