

Boys Tennis Wraps Up Season

By: Addison Bumbleburg

The boys tennis season has come to a close, but it was certainly one to remember. The team brought many new players to the court this year including Evan Hunt, William Gausmann, and Nathan Finke. All the boys put forth hard effort to improve their score from last year and succeeded. The most memorable match was their victory against Brownstown in a tie break. While each teammate plays a different opponent during a match, the bond between them is still a friendly one. Solomon Hall and Nathan Voelker both describe the group as chaotic, but fun to be around. That's the kind of team spirit Trinity strives for. The boys have grown greatly from last year. They have worked on all aspects of the game to improve their skills. Coach Walton has worked hard to teach them proper backhands, forehands, lobs, and other important pieces of the game. Each year has brought improvement to the team, and we cannot wait to see what is in store for them in the coming years.
